About the Pacific Coast Oto-Ophthalmological Society (PCOOS) ...

The Pacific Coast Oto-Ophthalmological Society's membership is composed of Board certified otolaryngologists and ophthalmologists from the thirteen western states. The membership is divided between each specialty with academic and clinical orientation. The Society's Annual Meetings are rotated from the southern Pacific Coast, Hawaii and the Northern Pacific Coast. In 2006, the 90th Annual Meeting was held in Cabo San Lucas, Mexico. The following year, the 91st Annual Meeting was held at the Turtle Bay Resort on Oahu. The 92nd Annual Meeting was held in Newport Beach, California. The 93rd Annual Meeting will return to Turtle Bay Resort on Oahu. In addition to excellent scientific sessions, PCOOS Meetings are family-oriented. The meetings are held in resort hotels in locations conducive to a relaxed environment for sharing of an educational experience with colleagues and faculty.

BENEFITS OF PCOOS MEMBERSHIP FOR YOUNG PRACTITIONERS

1. To learn practical and applied OTO and OPH from formal presentations.
2. To make valuable contacts through informal discussions with colleagues and course faculty members, including a PCOOS Membership Directory.
3. To earn CME credit (Category 1) at an exceptionally reasonable price by attending the Annual Meeting.
4. To provide the opportunity for productive interaction with faculty and colleagues. The leisurely pace of the meeting allows this interaction between the academic and clinical attendees on both a professional and social level.
5. To have exclusive access to talks presented at the Annual Meeting posted on a secured website for members only.
6. To develop referral patterns and contacts with physicians within the region and specialty.
7. To enjoy the unique interaction with physicians in another specialty with significant overlapping clinical interests and problem cases.
8. To attend first class meetings in first class locations with favorable room rates and events designed to accommodate the physician's family.
9. To attend regional meetings reduces time and expense with emphasis on West Coast locations.
10. To provide the venue for the presentation of papers and clinical experiences by submitting papers or by participating in discussions held during the scientific sessions.
